Incorporating Doctoral School Question Time and summer social

Three Minute Thesis (3MT) is a competition developed by the University of Queensland which challenges doctoral students to present a compelling spoken presentation on their research topic and its significance, in just three minutes.

Sheffield Hallam will be holding its 2017 3MT competition on Tuesday 27 June. As well as winning a prize of £500 towards attending an academic conference of their choice, the winner will be put forward as SHU's entry to the UK national competition.

All you have to do is present your doctoral research topic to a mixed-disciplinary audience, using 1 slide and in no more than 3 minutes.

We will be holding heats at both campuses, and you are welcome to participate in either heat. Three from each heat, plus the two highest-scoring runners up, will go through to SHU's final on 27 June.

Distance learners who are not able to attend either of the heats may submit their entry by video instead, which will then be played at one of the heats.

Eligibility

All Sheffield Hallam doctoral students who will not have had their viva by 27 June 2017 are eligible. You must be able to attend one of the heats taking place on Tuesday 9 May (1400-1600) or Tuesday 23 May (1000-1200) and the final on Tuesday 27 June, 1000-1200.

How to enter

Please email doctoralschool@shu.ac.uk by 1pm Tues 2 May to express an interest in participating, stating your name, Research Centre/ Faculty, thesis title and preferred heat.

What happens then?

You will then receive further guidance on preparing for the competition, and the format of the heats and final.

Why enter?

Three minute thesis is an excellent opportunity for doctoral researchers to develop their communication skills. It is also a unique chance for you to share your research and your passion for it with the broader research community, and raise your profile as a researcher both within and beyond the University.

Our 2016 & 2015 competitions saw some excellent presentations given by researchers from across the University. You can watch the SHU finalists via the links on the Doctoral School site:

The winner of SHU's 2015 competition, James Reynolds, reached the UK national finals. You can watch James's final presentation, along with those of the other national finalists, on the Vitae website

Competition Rules

- A single static PowerPoint slide is permitted. No slide transitions, animations or 'movement' of any description are allowed. The slide is to be presented from the beginning of the oration
- No additional electronic media (e.g. sound and video files) are permitted
- No additional props (e.g. costumes, musical instruments, laboratory equipment) are permitted
- Presentations are limited to 3 minutes maximum and competitors exceeding 3 minutes are disqualified
- Presentations are to be spoken word (e.g. no poems, raps or songs)
- Presentations are to commence from the stage
- Presentations are considered to have commenced when a presenter starts their presentation through either movement or speech
- The decision of the adjudicating panel is final

Judging Criteria

Comprehension & Content:

- Did the presentation provide an understanding of the background to the research question being addressed and its significance?
- Did the presentation clearly describe the key results of the research including conclusions and outcomes?
- Did the presentation follow a clear and logical sequence?
- Was the thesis topic, key results and research significance and outcomes communicated in language appropriate to a non-specialist audience?
- Did the speaker avoid scientific jargon, explain terminology and provide adequate background information to illustrate points?
- Did the presenter spend adequate time on each element of their presentation - or did they elaborate for too long on one aspect or was the presentation rushed?

Engagement & Communication:

- Did the oration make the audience want to know more?
- Was the presenter careful not to trivialise or generalise their research?
- Did the presenter convey enthusiasm for their research?
- Did the presenter capture and maintain their audience's attention?
- Did the speaker have sufficient stage presence, eye contact and vocal range; maintain a steady pace, and have a confident stance?
- Did the PowerPoint slide enhance the presentation - was it clear, legible, and concise?

Related Terms and Conditions

- The institutional final will be filmed
- Other entrants and invited guests will also be in attendance
- The winner's film will be submitted to the national online semi-finals, taking place during July and August
- If our entry to the national semi-finals is successful, the winner will be expected to attend the live UK final in Birmingham on 11 September 2017. The University will cover travel costs.
- Individual doctoral students and Sheffield Hallam University will jointly own the resulting films from the institutional final. Both may freely use the films on websites/social media, but must reference the other and the 3MT competition where it is displayed. Students may veto the University using their film if they have any particular concerns
- The £500 prize must be utilised to attend an academic conference or equivalent before 31 July 2018. It may be used towards delegate fee, accommodation and travel costs only. The award is up to £500 and underspend cannot be paid directly to individuals. The sum may be spent on more than one conference during the stated period
