

Calling Researchers: Write your own subject coursebook!

heppSY

Apply before 28th March 2021:

APPLY HERE

We are now recruiting postgraduate researchers to design high-quality teaching resources.

In partnership with HeppSY, researchers will be trained to create their own coursebook for 11-14 year olds, allowing you to turn your research subject into a series of exciting short modules and activities.

The Research-Based Curriculum programme supports local pupil attainment and university progression by providing classroom resources on cutting-edge research to local state schools through HeppSY.

Through training, researchers will:

- Develop valuable transferable skills
- Learn to communicate and pitch their research to younger audiences
- Support under-represented local students in their educational journey
- Get public engagement experience
- Earn a stipend of £400

Maths, English and Science related PhDs only

Limited 6 places for Spring 2021

Required training online – 28th April 2021

www.access-ed.ngo/research-based-curricula

<https://extra.shu.ac.uk/heppsy/>

heppSY

